CREEK

JOURNAL

Vol I, Issue 4

April 1983

Dear Fellow Pioneers:

The response to Issue 3 of the Journal was tremendous. Thanks for your compliments and comments. One gentleman said that we have set a high standard and might find it tough to maintain. A lady commented that reading Issue 3 was like reading a good novel and was even more exciting because the stories were true. Still another reader sent congratulations but pointed out some things that could make an even better publication in the future. We appreciate your comments and criticisms and hope that you will continue to tell us what you think. The Journal is not a one person effort and requires the assistance of each of you through submissions of articles and records to maintain the high standard.

You will notice a new look in this "bigger" issue of the Journal. These changes were made in an effort to print more material and to print it at less cost. I purchased a new typewriter when my old one went "on the fritz"; I went with the smaller type to get more words on the page. Franklin Walters, a Hacker-Sleeth descendant who lives in Port Charlotte, Florida, purchased and donated a mimeograph machine to the organization. Although some picture pages have been duplicated by off-set printing, the rest of this issue of The Journal was run on the new machine. Although the quality of the printing is not as good, the savings of doing our own printing will allow us to include more pages and not go over budget.

In the January issue a new letterhead for the Journal was promised. Problems have developed with the printing of the submitted letterhead and it had to be shelved for this issue.

On page 58 is the info about the Second Annual Hacker's Creek Pioneer Descendants Gathering which will be held October 1-2, 1983, at Jackson's Mill State 4-H Camp in Lewis County. Bob and Larry Smith, our Site Seekers, have done an excellent job in making arrangements. I'm looking forward to seeing each of you there.

Cordially,

Jay L. Gilchrist

Hacker's Creek Pioneer Descendants Gathering was organized in October 1982 by and for those interested in the history and genealogy of the Hacker's Creek area. THE HACKER'S CREEK JOURNAL is published quarterly and is the newsletter of the organization.

OFFICE EQUIPMENT

The office of HCPD in the basement of the Gilchrist home is developing the look of any well-equipped office. In addition to the built-in desk, Joy's typewriter and two well-stuffed five-tiered shelves, there are the three filing cabinets and the mimeograph machine which belong to HCPD. It is hoped that additional equipment - including a copy machine and an index card file - can shortly be added to our inventory.

A big THANKS to Franklin Walters for his donation of the mimeograph machine. It was in working order and required only a few adjustments by Charlie Gilchrist after he brought it to Ohio when returning from the couple's recent Florida vacation. The savings in the printing costs of each issue by this method will be approximately $100. for our current membership.

HCPD has been given an opportunity to buy a copy machine, supplies and paper for 20,000 copies from a Salem, Ohio, businessman and fellow-genealogist with roots in Lewis County. The asking price is $175.

Presently Joy is making copies of the many papers she sends to members as one of the "perks" of her place of employment. This benefit will cease in May when she moves to the Coshocton-Zanesville, Oh., area to be with her recently transferred husband. As you know, it can be a difficult and time-consuming task getting even a few copies made - let alone the volume that is sometimes sent to our members. Copy costs can range from 10¢ to 25¢ each depending on the locality. The cost per copy for the first 20,000 copies with the above mentioned machine would be less than a penny apiece.

Joy and Betty, after consultation with several of the members, are seriously considering the purchase. They would appreciate your comments - pro and con - within the next week or so. If anyone would care to donate a small sum toward the purchase, they are welcome to do so; however, our treasury is in good shape and the savings from the publication of this single issue via the mimeograph will make a big hole in the $175.

In addition, members would have the use of both machines. Joy and/or her family will gladly mimeograph copies for the members if typed stencils are submitted and a check is sent to cover postage and paper. There are times when each of us has a large copying job to be done; a fee schedule will be worked out to cover the expenses. Write to Joy for details on both.

PALATINES TO AMERICA

Several Hacker's Creek families had their origins in the Palatinate in Germany. A West Virginia Chapter of Palatines to America is being organized. The organizational meeting will be 16 April 1983 at the Ramada Inn in Morgantown. Interested parties should contact: Edna N. Yost, 414 Fairfax Street, Berkeley Springs, W. Va. 25411.

Morrison Cemetery

The clean-up at Morrison (Old Hacker) is coming along. Bob and Larry Smith spent a Saturday in March burning the brush piles. There is still some brush to be cut.

Maurice Allman, Rt. 2 Box 264 D, Philippi, W. Va. 26416, has "come by" some black walnut saplings to be planted around the perimeter of the cemetery. If anyone would like to help him with this project, please contact him.

Joy is Moving

14 April 1983 - We learned Monday that we are moving May 1, 1983, to Coshocton, Ohio; although we knew about the move, we thought it would not be until June 1. I attempted to rent a post office box in Coshocton so that I could give you my new address; however, there were none available. Therefore, you may continue to use my Farmington Circle address in Canton and the post office will forward or you may write to me or write to me %Betty Graybill, 2418 Broad Ave NW, Canton, Oh 44708 and she will forward. We're renting for the present because we fear that my husband may be transferred within a year or so and don't want the hassle of selling another home; and, you guessed it, we've not yet found a house. We have one "lined up" but won't know about it, for sure, until next week.

To all of you who are awaiting replies to your letters - please bear with me. I'll answer just as soon as I can. I've spent the past couple of weeks on this issue and house-hunting in Coshocton. As soon as this issue is run off, I must begin packing, sorting and getting ready for the move.

2nd ANNUAL HACKER'S CREEK PIONEER DESCENDANTS GATHERING

ANNOUNCEMENT! ANNOUNCEMENT! ANN-^u-O-^u-N-CEMENT!!

That little ditty is to herald the announcement of the plans for the Second Annual Hacker's Creek Pioneer Descendants Gathering on Saturday and Sunday, October 1 and 2, at Jackson's Mill State 4-H Camp in Lewis County, W. Va.

Robert E. Smith and Son Larry have done a tremendous job of getting some fantastic rates and making some great arrangements. Those of you in attendance at our first Gathering will recall that Jackson's Mill was discussed as a potential sight for this year's Gathering; however, in an effort to determine the best site for the best price, Bob and Larry checked on firehalls, churches, schools and hotels. Bob then went to Jackson's Mill and discussed our needs with the administration there. He came away with what we think is a superb package deal!!

Because several of our people are from out-of-town and do not have relatives in the immediate area and because there are no motels or good restaurants in the immediate area, Bob made arrangements for lodging and meals. We will have our choice - dependant upon the number of people attending - of either the Assembly Hall, which holds 300, or the West Virginia Room, which holds 500+ at no charge provided that 80% of our people partake of a single meal. With a banquet planned for Saturday evening, we believe that we will meet that stipulation. In addition, to get the reduced rates for meals and lodging, we must pay as a group rather than individually; and reservations must be made by July 1, 1983.

Those who plan to come from out-of-town will have their choice of staying in the lodge which is of Holiday Inn quality with a TV in each room or of staying in the cottages if they wish to bring their families. Reservations may also be made for Friday night.

Local participants may choose to stay at their homes and partake of one or more meals. Meals will be served cafeteria style in the dining hall.

There will be a $2 registration fee for all participants to cover program cost, banquet speaker and other miscellaneous items. Non-members of HCPD may attend; only dues-paying members will have voting privileges.

The tentative schedule for the weekend's activities:

Saturday, October 1, 1983:

- 9 a.m. - Registration and assignment of lodging*
- 11 a.m. - Gathering of the Clans - Meeting hall
- 12 noon - Lunch in the dining hall
- 1:30 p.m. - Small group meetings - the categories have not been decided
- 3 p.m. - Free time - The opportunity to get together with others of your family and exchange information and ideas. A copy machine will be available.

- 5:30 p.m. - Vacate meeting hall so it may be used for the evening by another organization.
- 6:30 p.m. - Banquet in dining hall. There will be a speaker and some musical entertainment. 80% of the group must participate.

Sunday, October 2, 1983:

- 8 a.m. - Breakfast in dining hall.
- 9 a.m. - Interdenominational Church Services. We hope to be able to use the All Faith Chapel at the Mill.
- 10:15a.m. - Late registration for those participating on Sunday only - Meeting hall. Fee will remain $2.
- 10:30a.m. - Tour of Hacker's Creek. Arrangements to be announced.
- 12noon - Lunch in dining hall
- 1:30p.m. - Business meeting - Meeting hall
- 3 p.m. - Free time - The opportunity to get together with others of your family and exchange information and ideas.
- 5 p.m. - Adjournment

To save confusion, I'll not report what the original base price for the use of the meeting hall and other facilities was; I'll only say that by making the arrangements and paying as a group we are getting a large savings. I think those of you who have attended conventions elsewhere will agree. Remember, you do not have to stay at the Mill in order to participate; however, we must have 80% participation at the banquet on Saturday night.

Rates

1. Lodge (Holiday Inn quality with TV in each room)
Single - $25.00; Double, $16.00 each person; 3 to a room, $44.00 each person; 4 to a room, $12.00 each person.
2. Dormitory - use of cottages for families
Adults - $8.50 each; Youth under 12, $3.75 each
3. Meals - Group served in cafeteria at specified times
 - a. Breakfast: Adults - $2.75 each; Youth under 12 - $2.25 each
 - b. Lunch: Adults - $ each; Youth under 12 - $2.75 each
 - c. Dinner 9 Banquet on Saturday night)
Adults - $4.25 each; Youth under 12 - $3.25 each.

The advantage to the package is that each person may choose his or her own options that best fit their needs. A reservation form is attached to the front cover of your Journal. Check the options that you will need and return your registration and reservation to Betty Graybill, 2418 Broad Avenue NW, Canton, Oh 44708, no later than July 1, with a check or money order for the amount. Cancellations with refund will be accepted until September 17, 1983.

FIRST FAMILIES

This issue's featured first family is the Sleeth Family. Material for this column was submitted by Lolita Guthrie, Ann Newman, Robert B. Smith, Mrs. Dewey Osborne and Joy Gilchrist. Additional material was found in the files of J.W. Smith which are in possession of Howard Smith.

Truths and Traditions

Among the first party of prospective settlers led to the pleasant dales of Buckhannon by the Pringle brothers were Alexander and Thomas Sleeth. With John Jackson and his two sons, George and Edward, they had come to the Buckhannon Valley to clear land, plant crops and build cabins and make other preparations to bring their families to the area.¹

Lord Leith ????

Many traditions surround the John Sleeth family; some can be proven and some cannot. One of the traditions concerns the derivation of the Sleeth family and their descent from Lord Leith, a Scottish warlord who, it's said, fell out of favor with the British crown following the Battle of Culloden on 16 Apr 1746, took refuge in Ireland and then came to America arriving in Philadelphia on 11 September 1747²; another source says the family arrived in New York City in September 1719³; and Anna Sleeth Stover in her manuscript reprinted in this issue has the family arriving a few weeks before Alexander Sleeth's birth in New York in 1750.

A professional genealogist researched this family in Scotland with his fees paid by an Upshur County, W. Va., Sleeth family descendant. The researcher was unable to find any truth in the tradition; he found the genealogy of the Lord Leith line remains unbroken since some time before 1740.

Arrival in America

Search of ships' passenger lists in the Passenger and Immigration Lists Index⁴ has not pinpointed any Sleeth/Leith or any of its varied spellings arriving in either 1719 or 1747. A James Sleet, no age given, arrived (where??), bound for Orange County, Virginia, in 1750⁵; and an Alexander Leith arrived in Annapolis, Md., in 1760; a John Leith and Joseph Sleath were found in English Convicts in Colonial America - London 1656-1775, as arriving in America in 1768.⁶ There was none of any spelling of the name to arrive at anytime near 1719.

Since these old family traditions usually are truer than fiction, it's fairly certain that the Sleeths were of Scottish origin and were in Ireland for a time where a daughter Margaret was born in 1747. Margaret (Sleath) Hacker's tombstone says the family came to America in 1748.⁷

Given Name of Progenitor

While the Sleeth name has had varied spellings in official records including Sleath, Sleith and Sleet in addition to Sleeth, controversy has surrounded the given name of the Sleeth family progenitor in West Virginia - that is, the father of Margaret (Sleeth) Hacker, Alexander Sleeth Sr., John Sleeth Jr., Jane (Sleeth) Hughes, and David Wallace Sleeth. Other siblings may have been Thomas Sleeth and James Sleeth. Supporting the statement that Thomas Sleeth was a brother are the facts that Thomas did come to Hacker's Creek with Alexander and others and that John and Margaret (Sleeth) Hacker named a son Thomas Sleeth.

Eloise Roberts in her work⁸ gave the father's name as Alexander; J. W. Smith in his Hacker-Smith work gave his name as either William or Alexander; and Anna (Sleeth) Stover said he was John. The preponderance of evidence indicates that the parents of these children were John and Mary (Ann?) (Wallac?) Sleeth.

One good clue is found in the names of the grandchildren of John and Mary Sleeth. Traditionally, a first son was named for the paternal grandfather, the second son was named for the maternal grandfather and the third son would be named for the father. Later sons would generally be named after various members of both parent's families or close friends. The same method held true for members of the female gender.

John and Margaret (Sleeth) Hacker followed this tradition and named their first child, a daughter, Mary Ann, probably after her p. g. mother; the second child, a son, they called William after his paternal grandfather; and the third child, another son, they called John. They did name a child Alexander but only after they also had a Jonathan David/Daniels.

Alexander Sleeth Sr. named his first son John, probably for his paternal grandfather; and his first daughter he called Mary for her paternal grandmother. His second son, who was born to his second wife Nancy Smith, was named David after the second wife's father, David Smith. Finally, the third son was named Alex^{at} P. Sleeth

⁸Four Revolutionary Soldiers and Their Descendants

Juner after himself not Alexander III as he would have been called had he been named for Alexander Sleeth Senr.'s father.⁹ The names of only two children of John Sleeth Jr. are known- Mary and David. Whether these were the only children of this man is not known; thus, we cannot use the children of John Sleeth Jr. for comparison.

Jane Sleeth married Elias/Ellis Hughes; among their children were no Alexanders. However, there was a John.¹¹

The children of David Wallace Sleeth were thirteen in number. Since the birthorder of all the children, and especially their sons John and Alexander is unknown, no deductions can be made in this respect.¹² Proof that David was of this family of Sleeths is in his Revolutionary War Pension Application in which David Wallace Sleeth, speaking of himself, said, "His father's Bible is now in the hands of David Smith of this county and who married the daughter of the declarant's oldest sister."¹³ David Smith married Sarah Hacker, daughter of John and Margaret (Sleeth) Hacker.¹⁴

This reasoning could be carried one step further. If John Sleeth Sr. named his children in the traditional way, his mother's name would have been Margaret and his father would have been Alexander. If this was the case and if Alexander Sleeth, father of John Sleeth Sr., came to America, this could have been the cause of some of the disagreement among descendants as to the name of the original immigrant.

Further records supporting John Sleeth Senior as the progenitor of the Sleeth clan of Hacker's Creek are found in the Minute Books of Harrison County, now West Virginia, which was formed in 1784. These were found recorded for that year:

"John Sleeth Senior be exempted from the payment of all personal taxes and labouring the highway.

John Sleeth recommended to his excellency the Governor to fill the office of the peace of said county.

John Sleeth app't. to celebrate the rights of matrimony, the first complying with the law."¹⁵

Also starting in 1785, we find him listed as a Gent. Justice.¹⁶

These records were found in the Survey books of Harrison County:

"John Sleath Sr., 400 acres on Hackers Creek adjoining lands of John Hacker to include his settlement made in 1777."¹⁷

"John Sleeth, Senior, and Mary, his wife, sold land to David Wallace Sleeth; 346 acres of land on Hackers Creek, including John Sleeth's settlement made in the year 1777."¹⁸

The survey records included this curious statement:

"David Sleath, 200 acres on Hackers Creek adjoining lands of Samuel Bonnett to include his settlement made in 1770."¹⁹

David Wallace Sleeth appears to answer this last record and the mention of the name of David in it when he made his pension declaration in 1832 when he said, "His father had a cabin and acquired the settlement rights. David himself did not acquire the settlement right, he was too young."²⁰

In 1794 John Sleeth was recommended to fill the office of Sheriff for the county. He served the year 1793, was recommended to serve another year and was unable to obtain security. In July 1794, reference is made to John Sleeth, late Sheriff.²¹

Although there were two John Sleeths - Senior and Junior - in the area part of the time, these references all appear to have been to John Sleeth Sr. He lived in the area the entire time while John Jr. was gone much of the time.

Anna (Fletcher) (Sleeth) Parsons, aged 85, testified in 1846 that she had married John Sleith (Jr.) in 1777-1778 with a Baptist preacher, Joseph Redding, officiating in a fort somewhere in present-day Lewis County and that shortly thereafter they had moved to the South Branch of the Potomac. She further stated that:

"John Sleith had gone out from Pendleton, then Augusta County, Virginia, as a substitute for a man named Mouse, and enlisted in Armand's Legion of Dragoons.²² He was at the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, work trooper's clothes, had a troop horse, sword and pistols."²³

After John Jr.'s Service, they lived on Jackson River in Bath County, Virginia, before returning to Clarksburg and Lewis County, residing but a few years at any one place until his death in 1793 or 1794.²⁴ He died in the Fall of 1794.²⁵

It might be argued that the reference made to "John Sleeth, late Sheriff" in July 1794 is John Jr. This is doubtful since Anna (Flesher) Sleeth did not come into Harrison County Court until October 1794 and apply for George Jackson to be made Administrator to her late husband's estate.²⁶ His estate inventory was filed 25 Oct 1794.²⁷ She would not have waited this long to apply for settlement and/or inventory of his estate.

Maiden Name of Mary Sleeth

Since no marriage record or any other record which shows Mary Sleeth's maiden name has been found, her maiden name has been based on the supposition that the younger son, David Wallace Sleeth was named for his maternal grandfather.

Two spellings have been used for David's middle name -- "Wales" and "Wallace." The former spelling would have been pronounced with a soft "a" not a long "a" and with two syllables as in "Wallace"..These two different spellings have led to some confusion in the family history.

Trek to Hacker's Creek

Since no specific date of immigration to America for this family has been found and proven, the family's arrival in Virginia and it's movements there must be based upon some traditions and a very few facts.

Tradition says that the Sleeth family came directly to the Shenandoah Valley upon their arrival²⁸; another source says they lived in eastern Virginia around Dumfries in Prince William ²²19 October 1781.

29; a third reference explores the possibility that they settled in Orange County which is considered part of the Shenandoah.

The Will of Weeden Sleet of Orange County, Va., dated April 1773, names among others, his brother, John Sleet, as Exor. In addition, a John Sleet was witness in a trial in Augusta County, Va., 21 Nov 1766; and John was paid for traveling 78 miles from Orange County, Virginia.³⁰ It has not been proved that this is the same John Sleeth/Sleet who settled in Central West Virginia.

In a sworn statement by David W. Sleeth in 1832, he said he was born in Frederick County, Virginia in 1762.³¹ This would place the Sleeth family in the same area as the Hacker and other early Hacker's Creek pioneers prior to their removal to the South Branch and would lend credence to the supposition that most of "our" early pioneers were at least acquainted before they began their trek Westward.

The date that John Sleeth Sr. moved his family, including his wife and children who remained at home, from the South Branch to Hacker's Creek can be approximated. The traditional date of 1770 which probably referred to the date that Alexander and Thomas Sleeth came with the Pringles is supported by the David Sleeth Survey record found in the Harrison County Survey Books, (See Footnote 19.) However, David W. Sleeth's pension documents place the date at 1776.³² That the Sleeths were in the area by 1777 is a proven fact. (See Footnotes 17 and 18.)

John Sleeth Sr. - The Man

Not much information is available to describe what John Sleeth Sr. was like as a person. We know he could read and write for he was appointed in June 1785 by the Harrison County Court to make a list of all those residing "from the mouth of Lost Creek, upwards, including the whole of the rivers in the West Fork Settlement."³³ His list of 45 persons names the following:

John Sleeth Sr. was a respected man in his community. He was the first of the hundreds of justices and ministers who have, to this day, been certified to perform marriages in Harrison County. Strangely, only one marriage, that of Henry Runyon to Mary (Bush) Hegle, a widow³⁵, on 11 October 1784 is recorded as being performed by him.³⁶

He would have been a man who respected law and order for he served as sheriff. Justice, as performed in those days, was often harsh as judged by our modern day standards. It must be remembered that in those days, survival sometimes meant a trust and dependence upon one's neighbors; and, when that trust was broken, justice was swift and demanding.

The little that is known about the wife of John Sleeth Sr. and the mother of his children appears in the Anna (Sleeth) Stover manuscript in this issue.

Children and Grandchildren of John and Mary (Ann?) (Wallace) Sleeth

Margaret Sleeth - Wife of John Hacker and mother of eleven children. While the Hacker family has not been featured in the Journal to date, so much information has been published about them that the family story is well known. Mary Ann (Hacker) West, while still a new bride, was slain and scalped by the Indians in 1787; another daughter, Elizabeth (Hacker) Hardman, died in 1811 as the results of a scalping she received the same day. Descendants of seven of the ten children who left heirs are members of HCPD. Plans have been made to feature the Hackers in an issue of Volume II of "The Hacker's Creek Journal."

Alexander Sleeth Sr. - The descendants of this son of John and Mary are primarily in Indiana and points further West. One of the first pioneers to come to the Hacker's Creek area, he and his family were also among the early emigrants from there. The story of Alexander, his family and their migration is in the Anna (Sleeth) Stover manuscript in this issue.

John Sleeth Jr. - Was born about 1757, probably in Virginia, and came to Hacker's Creek with his parents. In 1777-1778 he married Ann (Nancy) Flesher, b. ca 1761, daughter of Henry and Elizabeth (Staats) Flesher, in a fort somewhere in present-day Lewis County. This unnamed fort was probably Wests Fort; David Wallace Sleeth in his pension application in 1834 said that his father John Sr. was at Wests Fort in those years. John Jr. was most likely there also.³⁷ It was on Henry Flesher's land that the town of Weston was begun.

1777-1778 were the years that marked the beginnings of the Indian attacks against the Hacker's Creek settlements. Records show that most of the settlements in what is now Lewis County were abandoned as a result of these attacks - the Flesher settlement at Weston, the Hacker's Creek settlement and a few clearings farther down the West Fork were the only exceptions.

The story of the John Sleeth Jr. family movements up to his death in 1794 at the young age of 42 have been covered. As earlier stated, only two children from this marriage have definitely been identified: Mary and David.

Sometime after Anna (Nancy) (Flesher) Sleeth's marriage to Charles Parsons, a widower (?), 30 August 1796³⁸, the Parsons family moved to Jackson County, (W.) Va., where Charles Parsons died 4 Nov 1823.³⁹

The Parsons were not without family and friends from Hacker's Creek in Jackson County. Andrew and Elizabeth Flesher, Anna's brother and sister-in-law, were residents and filed supporting documents in Anna's behalf when she applied for pension benefits in 1846.⁴⁰ Other Hacker's Creek families were also residents of the Jackson County area and ancestors of several HCPD members.

Mary Sleeth, daughter of John and Anna, was wed to George Parsons 31 Dec 1801 in a marriage recorded in Harrison County. Mary was a ward of Charles Parsons.⁴¹

The only record found to date on David Sleeth, the son of John and Anna, is in the will of his grandfather, Henry Flesher, where he is named as a grandson. The will was dated 26 Nov 1802.⁴²

Jane Sleeth - This daughter was born about 1760; sometime before 1781 she married Elias/Ellis Hughes, a noted Indian fighter and scout in the early days.

Elias was the son of Thomas Hughes Sr. and was born in Hardy County. He came to Harrison County when but a boy, in 1770, and was second only to his brother, Jesse Hughes, in his prowess as an Indian Scout.⁴³

Like the Hacker story, the Hughes story is widely known. A short section in an article on the Sleeth family would not begin to do this family justice. Since a featured article is planned for the future, we'll list only the bare facts here.

Jane and Elias Hughes were the parents of twelve children. In 1797 the family left Harrison County, (W.) Va., and went to Licking County, Ohio. In 1798 they became the first permanent white settlers of what is now Licking County with their settlement at Bowling Green. Jane died in 1827 and Elias about 1845.⁴⁴

David Wallace Sleeth - David declared in his pension application in 1832 that he was born 18 May 1762 in Frederick County, Virginia.⁴⁵ By 1785 this son of John and Mary (Wallace) Sleeth Sr. had married Catherine Carpenter, daughter of Nicholas and Mary (Wolfe) Carpenter.⁴⁶ Nicholas Carpenter was one of the West Fork River boys who held office in the newly formed Harrison County in 1784; he served as coroner.⁴⁷ Cemetery records in the West Virginia Collection, West Virginia University, show that Catherine (Carpenter) Sleeth was buried in the Old Pioneer's Cemetery at Butchersville, W. Va.⁴⁸ when she died in Lewis County 17 June 1828 at the age of 60. Her stone cannot be found. David and Catherine had thirteen children.

Margaret Sleeth - married Cornelius Cain 5 July 1804.⁴⁹

Mary Sleeth - b. 11 April 1785 and d. 9 Oct. 1864, buried in the Waldeck Cemetery. She m. Henry Waldeck 27 Apr 1800 in a marriage recorded in Harrison County, when Henry was 40 and she was 15. Henry Waldeck was a Hessian soldier who elected to stay in this country after the Revolutionary War. He was born 17 Jan 1758 in Immenhausen, Hesse, Germany, a son of Gernand and Anna Martha (Nolten) Waldeck; he died in Lewis County in August 1834. Henry was a widower when he married Mary Sleeth having been

Nicholas C. Sleeth - m. Catherine Collins 16 Mar 1815 in a marriage recorded in Harrison County as performed by William Hacker.⁵¹

David Wallace Sleeth, Jr. - B. 25 Dec 1796; m. (1) Nancy Lyman who was b. 1807⁵² and d. 17 Sept 1842 and interred in Harmony Cemetery. (2) Elizabeth Prince.⁵³

Alexander K. Sleeth - b. 28 February 1797 m. Catherine Woolf/Wolfe, daughter of David Woolf, 30 June 1817. John Davis wed the couple.⁵⁴

Henry Waldeck Sleeth - b. 11 Oct 1800 m. Mary Wyant 18 Nov 1821 with William Hacker officiating and the ceremony recorded in Lewis County.⁵⁵

Thomas Jackson Sleeth - b. 12 Jan 1807, m. (1) Susan Bridley and (2) Mary Whiting. Mary later married Edmund Messenger.⁵⁶

Sarah McCally Sleeth - m. Henry Wyant 20 June 1816 in marriage recorded in Harrison County as being performed by William Hacker.⁵⁷ Morris' record of marriages in Harrison County gives the date as 15 June 1816.⁵⁸

Catherine Sleeth - m. Samuel Erannon 12 July 1821.⁵⁹

George Washington Sleeth - m. Ruliana/Ruhama McWhorter 28 May 1830.⁶⁰

Nancy Sleeth - b. 1812; m. Allen Simpson 3 Nov 1831.⁶¹

Jane Sleeth - m. Henry Stallman.⁶²

John Sleeth - m. Elizabeth Wolfe 28 Oct 1818, moved to Shelby Co., Ind. Mrs. Newman, who submitted this list of children for David W. and Catherine (Carpenter) Sleeth, is not positive on the assignment of this child; her evidence suggests it.

After the death of Catherine, David Wallace Sleeth remarried. He chose Mrs. Susannah (Bush) Simpson, widow of Robert Simpson and daughter of Jacob Bush. J. Talbot married them 5 April 1834 and recorded the marriage in Lewis County. The date is given as 4 April 1834 on the Lewis County Historic Records Survey.

David Wallace Sleeth dated his first pension application for his Revolutionary Service as a scout and spy during the war 11 August 1832. Evidently he was turned down and had to submit further documents proving this service, as on 29 July 1834 he stated, "He was 73 years old and born in Frederick County, Virginia, and removed to now Lewis county in 1776. While in service he was put out as a scout and spy. The Indian depredations upon us killed five from the First of March to December (1777 or 1778). His father lived in Wests Forts. His father had a cabin and acquired the settlement rights. David himself did not acquire the settlement right, he was too young."⁶⁴

Other early settlers who made statements in behalf of David Wallace Sleeth were:

Elias Hughes on 20 Dec 1838 from the State of Ohio, Licking County.

Elizabeth Butcher on 4 June 1836, State of Virginia, Lewis County, stated she was the widow of Paulus Butcher, her age about 86 or 87 years⁶⁵.

Pheby Cunningham on 1 June 1836, State of Virginia, Lewis County, stated she was the widow of Thomas Cunningham and was age 76 years.

John Cutright said on 27 May 1836 in State of Virginia, Lewis county, that he was 81 years old.⁶⁶

David Wallace Sleeth died 28 June 1839 in Gilmer County, now West Virginia. He is supposedly buried on the Farnsworth farm. No stone has been found.

Thomas Sleeth (?) - No data available.

The Sleeths Today

Many Sleeth family members and descendants still reside in the Lewis County-Harrison County, W. Va., area today. Descendants married into many of the early pioneer families.

In an article published May 20 and 27, 1934, in the Clarksburg, W. Va., "Exponent-Telegram", Mr. Ray Vernon Sleeth wrote:

"With exceptions, the members of the different family groups since the Civil War have been Republicans. Of

LOLA'S SLEETH HISTORY

This history of the Alexander Sleeth family of Indiana was written by Ann(Sleeth) Stover, a daughter of Andrew Reed and Sarah (Myers) Sleeth, for her niece Lola. The original manuscript is owned by Lolita Guthrie of Bowling Green, Oh., who has given permission for it's use.

Alexander Sleeth is the first member of the family of which I have a record. He was born in New York, August 20, 1750. Moved to Virginia later on, from which state he enlisted in the Revolutionary War, serving six years, and attaining the rank of ensign. He was of Scotch-Irish descent.

He was twice married. One wife was Nancy Smith, think the other was (erasure). He was the father of fourteen children, ten sons and four daughters, namely Susannah, Mary Ann and two that died in infancy. The sons were named: James, Thomas, John, David, Jonas, Robert, Albert, Caleb, William and Alexander. The oldest daughter married a Mr. Senoy, the second one, Mary Ann, married Caleb Wright. In 1819 the Sleeth family moved to Fayette County, Indiana, locating near Brookville to be near the Government Land Office, as they were expecting to enter land, which at that time could be entered in Indiana by paying the entry fee of $1.25 per acre.

Alexander Sleeth died in Fayette County, May 14, 1820, and was buried there. The son, David, is the line of descent for us to follow.

He was born in Virginia (my grandfather) August 29, 1783. He married Jane Young, daughter of Andrew Young and wife. He moved to Ohio, ~~Darke~~ county, where a son Andrew Reed (my father) Sleeth was born. There were three other daughters, "Syntha", Harriette and "Evaline", all older than the son.

My father has told me that his parents moved from Ohio to Indiana when he was two months old, which settles the fact, conclusively, that the Sleeth family moved to Indiana in November 1819. Here, in Fayette county, Alexander Sleeth died May 14, 1820. Grandfather David Sleeth, the son, started out hunting land to enter in the spring of 1820. He secured a tract in Shelby county near where Fountaintown is now, and another near where Fairland is located now, and one on the south side, and right near Blue River in Marion Township, Shelby county, five miles north of Shelbyville, the county seat, and one mile north of where the village of Marion stands.

This tract he decided to make his homestead. He went to the Land Office and recorded his entry papers.

He returned to make preparations for moving his family. He found the tribe of Delaware Indians in possession, with their camp located just where he wished to erect his buildings and they refused to leave unless paid to do so. Grandfather's practiced eye told him that only fertile soil would grow such timber as it had produced, maple and black walnut in abundance. He decided to pay the Indians to vacate. He began at once clearing ground on which to erect his log cabin and barn, dug a well and made other preparations for the comfort of his family. He went back to Fayette co. in late summer to move his family to the new home but before he could accomplish this he suffered another attack of his old enemy "white swelling", lingered till the next spring, dying April 16, 1821, and was buried on White Water, Fayette Co., Ind. He realized he could never recover and willed 100 acres of land, on the west-side of his home tract to his brother William (Sallie Robins' father) so that he could build a home and live near grandmother to help her in a business way, and with the children, she being compelled to move to the new home as their money was invested there. Other Sleeth families came and located near.

I've heard grandmother tell what a stupendous task it was to clear the trash away that the Indians had left on their old camping grounds. It was very evident that they had manufactured maple syrup. The family noticed a deep path leading to the east and following it they discovered it lead to a fine spring of water on the hillside, about a quarter of a mile east. It has been said Indians "walk single file" and the depth and narrowness of the path showed it certainly had been the manner of walking in this path.

I will now give the religious character of this house. Grandmother had been raised in the Presbyterian faith, but after her marriage into the Sleeth family, who were Methodists, transferred her membership to that church. Pioneer preachers often came horseback, hunting new settlements, when they inquired for Methodists, would be directed to her house and were entertained there. They would decide when they would preach there at her house. Parties would be notified, including neighboring settlements. My father said he would be put on a horse to take the notice around when he was so small his legs would stick almost straight out while he was astried the horse. Grandmother always led the singing.

I've heard my mother say that grandmother, in her sleep, would sing a verse of some hymn through. The first Methodist Class ever organized in Shelby county was called "Sleeths Class" and was organized at her house.

A history of this class can be found in Rev. George L. Curtis' "History of Methodism in Shelby County". Rev. Curtis came to father's house and spent an afternoon with father, getting information for his book, "first hand".

I remember the names of a few of the preachers, as follows - James Havens, Asa Shinn, Apos Sparks and David Stivers. David Stivers came back and preached her funeral. She died in 1856 on the farm where she settled, 1819.

She was buried in the Marion cemetery, Marion township, Shelby county. The son, Andrew, inheriting this home.

The oldest daughter, "Syntha", married a man named Hemsley Seney. They moved to Missouri before the Civil War. The daughter Harriett married James Johnson and lived near Eggstown, Sugar Creek township. The third daughter married Thomas Hacker and lived near where Fairland is now. She died in early life leaving one son. Andrew Reed Sleeth, the youngest, married Sarah Myers, November 19, 1837. She was born in Green Co., Pennsylvania, February 16, 1820. Her father, Peter Myer, was of German descent, son of John Henry Myer, and wife Anne Charity Wire. His wife (Peter Myer's wife) was Susannah Bardell, daughter of John Bardell, of English descent, and wife, Sarah Bailey of French extraction.

of French extraction.

The Myer family moved from Pennsylvania to Indiana in 1830, stopping for a short time in the edge of Rush co., moving later to what is known as "The German Settlement", south of Ray's Crossing. They lived there one winter. He later bought a home near where "Blue River Church and Cemetery" are located. His two oldest sons, John and Charles, hired to other farmers and the daughter Sarah, my mother, helped grandfather clear land. Her father would stack the heaviest pieces of wood and she would carry brush and pile onto keep the fire burning. I've heard her tell about it. She said she would take the Testament to the clearing, it was all the "reading book" she had, after getting her brush piles burning nicely, she would sit on a stump and study the testament, trying to learn to read, till her brush piles needed stirring.

I will now tell of the first school father - Andrew Reed Sleeth attended. It was a quarter mile southeast of their cabin home on Blue River. It was built of split logs, the ends notched to fit together so the crevices would not be so wide, these were filled with clay "daubin" as it was called. For windows, two short logs that did not meet had greased paper fastened over them to let light in and keep out the cold. Of course they could have as many such as was needed. The floor was of split logs called "puncheons", they were layed close together and staked so they wouldn't slip. The seats were split logs smoothed off as well as they could with their rude tools, pegs were driven in the logs for leggs. There were no desks, except for those learning to write. There desks were split logs layed on pegs that were driven into the wall. It would extend full length of the room. Their pens were made of goose quills and their ink of the juice of barks and roots boiled down. Their studies were, I suppose,

"Readin' and writin'
And 'rithmetic,
Taught to the tune
Of a hickory stick;"

but, I've heard father tell of a grammar and spelling book.

I must not forget to describe the fireplace for it was the crowning glory of the room. It extended almost across one end of the room. It was built of stones that were picked up near, which of course, made them all different sizes. They were imbedded in clay "daubin". The big hearth was clay pounded down hard. The chimney was made of sticks, imbedded in clay, they were built like a log cabin, ends crossing and not always the same length. The inside was daubed with clay. To build a fire in it, a log, called "back log" was rolled against the back wall, for "Andirons" they used stones. In real cold weather the teacher would often get to the school house by four oclock in the morning and start the fire roaring in that big fireplace. Some of the children would be there by daylight. Father said he and a neighbor boy would race to see which would get there first. It was early in the fall and the chimney had not been repaired where the summer rain had washed the "darbin" out. Father saw the other boy was nearest the door, so he squeezed through that hole and beat the boy in. They had to take their seats and begin to study at once, and "outloud" at that. The whole school studied every lesson aloud.

Of course that was a limited education and I think father surely had un-limited judgment to fill the station in life that he did. He served as "Justice of Peace" twenty five years. The duties of the office were very much like those of the county court and Judge at the present. One of the duties was to perform the marriage ceremony. The first couple I ever saw married, my father pronounced the ceremony. I've heard him tell this amusing incident in connection with his duties in the office. A man and wife came riding on the same horse, she on behind the man with her arms around him to keep from falling off. Guess they thought if he could tie a knot, he could untie one for they told him they had come to get a divorce. He told them that was not included in the duties of his office, then talked to them, and reasoned with them, till they agreed to go home and try harder to live agreeably together.

Beside the duties of "Justice", he acted as administrator and executor of so many estates, often having three or four on hand at the same time. He acted as guardian for minor children frequently. A widow and fatherless children filled his heart with sincere pity, and he helped them in anyway he could. He was very sympathetic in sickness, which caused him to be sent for and in case of accident it would be "Send for Andy." Before the day of undertakers, he would go and do what he could in that capacity. He frequently removed the back seats from his spring wagon and used it as a hearse.

Though his education was so limited, he was a very useful man in his community. He died May 5, 1881. Buried in the Marion Cemetery.

Raising these nine children to manhood and womanhood was one of the greatest things he accomplished in life and caring for his old mother so patiently and kindly. I witness this in her last days, showed love and appreciation for her care of him when he was left a fatherless babe.

Grandmother, Jane Sleeth died on this farm in Marion township. She was born in Virginia, February 5, 1791. She died at her son Andrew's home on the farm she had helped to convert into a home from a wilderness. She died February 27, 1866. Buried in Marion Cemetery, Shelby Co., Ind.

The spring on the hillside to which the Indian path I've referred to led had such a strong appeal for father that he moved the home buildings from near the river upon this hill a few years after his marriage, much against the protests of his mother and wife, and established them near this spring, and when he erected his big frame house, in 1854, it was located near this spring. I'm sure of the year when this house was erected, for I had the honor of being the first child born in this house and I was born May 30, 1855. Here in this home the children all grew to manhood and womanhood, only leaving it to establish homes of their own.

Mother never liked to live there in the middle of the farm and so far from the public highway, so after father's death, the north half of the farm was sold and the old spring passed into other hands. I think this was in the year 1884.

Mother moved from the old home on the Hill, Oct. 6, 1884, to the new home on the Shelbyville and Morristown Road. About a mile north of the village of Marion. Here she died November 27, 1888, and was buried beside father in the Marion Cemetery November 29, 1888. It was a sad Thanksgiving day for we children when we turned away from "That low green tent from which the curtains never swing outward."

In memory of Mother.

She was such a wonderful mother so patient and kind, so just and true to her children. They were her first thought and care, their interests came first with her. She was never too busy to lend them a helping hand. I remember this so well. I was going to school for the first, I came home and said, "Mother, I have to speak a piece, what will I say?" My cry of "Mother" caused her to lay aside her work, sacrificing her interest to help her child. She came, took me on her lap and taught me this.

"The little wren is very small,
The humming bird is less,
The lady bird is less than all
And very beautiful in dress."

Though seventy years have gone over my head since then, I've never forgotten it. She told us she learned it when a little girl and said it was a verse at the top of a page in her spelling book.

-77-

As in this case, she was ever ready to heed the cry of her children from the oldest to the youngest, for "Mother." How sad our hearts when we turned away from her grave realizing that never again would she answer our cry for "Mother", for we had no mother. She had gone to "God's Other Room".

As a child I've gone with her for an evening walk. She loved nature and saw God's handiwork in all its beauty and was filled with adoration for all His wonderful work.

I've gone with her many evenings for a walk at setting sun. Her favorite spot was on top of a little hill. Here she would stand with the world at her feet, looking over the low lands as though looking "Over There". She seemed to have forgotten earthly things. She had a look on her face that filled my childish heart with awe. She seemed to be having a heavenly vision. I felt she was communing with God. She didn't talk religion, she lived it, as her husband and children knew. Thank God for such a mother.

Great Grandfather Young* How he lost his farm.

The first account I have of him, he was living on his farm in Virginia. This farm was badly infected with a disease known as "Milk Sick," a name given it, I suppose, because the disease could be transmitted to the human family by the use of milk products, from an infected cow. Cattle that grazed in woods frequently became infected. The attack usually terminated fatally. The symptoms were not manifest for a few hours and a family were liable to partake of the milk, thereby contracting the disease. All grazing animals were liable to infection. As a precautionary measure when cattle had been grazing in the woods, (the) would be run before milking till their blood was thoroughly heated, if infected they would then begin trembling and fall over to rise again.

There was great controversy as to the origin of the disease. Science has since proven it to be a vegetable poison, a weed of which some animals would eat greedily. It was eliminated by cultivation. The loss of animals and the great menace to his family caused great grandfather to decide to leave the community is now known as West Virginia. Father thought it was from her descriptions and knowledge he gained of the country there by reading. It must have required courage to just move off and abandoned ones home. I know nothing of his wife. I wish I had father's old bible, think Will Sleeth has it, as it had become the property of brother Hem.

By grandmother living with father, they often conversed about the happenings of the long, long ago. I was an egar listener. I learned so much about it, but, oh the things I'd like to learn about it now.

Editor's Note: The preceeding part of the manuscript appears to have been rewritten by Anna (Sleeth) Stover from that portion of the manuscript which follows. The handwriting was shakey and the spelling not as good as in the earlier manuscript. We publish that portion of the original manuscript about Great Grandfather Young which is extant so the reader may compare.

There was what was called "Milk Sick" on the farm, in fact, it was badly infested. It affected grazing animals. It was transmitted to the human family by the use of milk products, milk, butter and cheese, all milk products. If the cows grazed through the day in the woods they were given this test - before being milked. Some one would mount a horse and run the cows till their blood was well heated, if they were infected they would begin trembling and staggering till they would fall never to rise again as it was considered fatal. Horses would be attacked too. There was great controversy over the source of contamination, some being firm of the opinion that some drinking water was its origin but science proved conclusively that it was a poisonous weed. Clearing and cultivation of the land eradicated it afterwards. Great grand father decided he had lost so much stock by its ravages and it was such a menace to the family that he would sell his farm and go elsewhere. He found to sell his farm that was so badly infested was an impossibility. So he just abandoned it. Decided to go to Kentucky. He made diligent inquiries as to "Milk Sick" being there, to all inquiries he was told it positively was not near. After moving there he found he was "Out of the fat into the fire" for it was almost as bad as where he had left. He moved from there to Ohio, Dark County. It was while they were living there that my father Andrew Reed Sleeth was born September 18, 1819. He has told me they moved from Ohio to Indiana when he was two months old.

The following letter appears to have been written about the same time as the re-write on Great grandfather Young. While the handwriting is basically the same, it is shakey and smaller.

*Perhaps it was to this portion of the manuscript that Anna (Sleeth) Stover referred when she said in her letter to Lola "I'm mixed some oon great grandfather Young". Andrew Reed Sleeth was son of David Sleeth, not great grandfather Young.

Monday Eve, 7th

My Dear Lola:

In hunting through my papers today I found this - "John Sleeth* died at Valley Forge while serving under General Washington. He was the father of Alexander Sleeth, your mother's great grandfather. Was it you or Blanche that was wanting to establish a Revolutionary record so you could become a D.A.R.?

If it was you "go to it" - as you can claim your great-great-great grandfather's record, as well as your great great. Mrs. O'Byrne can tell you all about them for I think she has the record back to the flood. I also found Nancy Smith was my great grandmother, Great grandfather's first wife. I think I got this from Sallie Robins. In thinking it over today I think I'm mixed some on great-granfather Young, but not anything important and really who knows, I don't. I've done my best, if any person cares for it, they had better accept as it is. I realize I'm not capable of doing it again. I haven't found any record of the date of Grandfather's marriage. I mean grandfather Sleeth. Remeber where I've said grandfather and grandmother, they bore the same relationship to your mother and you can run them back to see what relation they are to you and Walton. John Sleeth, Alexander Sleeth, David (grandfather), Andrew, Hattie, Lola and Walton.

Again, I've done my best, condone mistakes. I think my dates are correct and names.

Caleb Sleeth ***

Father's Uncle Caleb Sleeth, when passing through the kitchen where I was at work, one day, stopped by me and told me this. "You remind me of my grandmother" I'll always remember the morning we started to move West. Grandmother walked with us till we were ready to go down a big hill, here she told us, each, farewell. She had on a long deep red cloak. When we got to the hilltop on the other side, we could see that red cloak, and as long as we could see bak that red cloak was there! Think of the desolation of her heart, for she knew she would never see them again. No train or autos then. I can hardly write about it, after all these years without crying.

Uncle Caleb Sleeth told this to me,
his great niecc,

Anna Sleeth Stover

* Research, so far, has not proven this. The "John Sleeth" of whom she speaks appeared in Harrison County, (W) Va. records after Valley Forge.

Nancy Smith was Alexander Sleeth's second wife. She was a daughter of David and Lydia (Sall) Smith. See Issue 3. Pg. 19.

Son of Alexander and Nancy (Smith) Sleeth.

"OLD SLEETH BIBLE"

From the records of J. W. Smith, the historian of the Hacker-Smith family, that I have obtained from Howard Smith of Philippi, W. Va., it is revealed that J. W. Smith wrote to Elouise May Roberts in reference to the book that she written, Four Revolutionary Soldiers, on 19 Sept 1950. Mrs. Roberts responded on 25 Sept 1950 that she had a copy of the book on hand. J. W. Smith replied on 9 Nov 1950 that he had received the book and wrote for documentary proof of the statements made in the book involving David Smith which were not in accord with his documents. Mr. Edward S. Roberts responded on 15 Dec 1950 and informed J. W. that Elouise M. Roberts had died three days after his letter had arrived and was not able to read it. (Elouise May Roberts died about 14 Nov 1950.) Edward S. Roberts offered his help in the future. J. W. Smith sent his sincere sympathy on 21 Dec 1950 and stated that he was then 80 years old and that his wife had died 12 years ago. He also requested a copy of the "Old Sleeth Bible" that Mrs. Roberts had obtained from a Sleeth woman who was old and had no children. J. W. Smith wrote again on 22 Mar 1951 and also asked about the availability of the Hacker Manuscripts and where they could be seen. Ed S. Roberts sent the photostatic copies of the "Old Sleeth Bible" and an old letter that he had found from J. F. Wright of Indianapolis, Ind., dated 20 Apr 1918 to J. W. Smith on 6 Apr 1951. 11 Apr 1951 thanked Mr. Roberts for the information that he had sent but asked if there were other death records that he might find and send to him. J. W. Smith again wrote to Mr. Roberts on 1 May 1951 and stated that he had received the book Some Colonial Families by Elouise M. Roberts and again asked for the Death and Marriage records from the Sleeth Bible. Ed. S. Roberts responded on 15 May 1951 and said that he was sending the Sleeth Bible records that had been requested and that none of the other material that had been sent need to be returned. On 19 May 1951 J. W. Smith thanked Mr. Roberts for the photocopies that he had sent and informed him that he had located microfilm clippings of the Hacker Manuscripts in the State Library at Richmond, Va. This is the end of the correspondence on this matter.

There are five pages of records from the "Old Sleeth Bible" and I believe that the Bible was the property of Alexander Sleeth Sr. (son of John and Mary Wallace? Sleeth), since all of his children are listed in the contents. This Bible would now be over 200 years old in reference to the dates recorded.

*A microfilmed copy of the Hacker Manuscripts is in the W. Va. Collection at West Virginia University, Morgantown, W. Va. Another copy is owned jointly by Franklin Walters and Joy Gilchrist.

This transcript of the "Old Sleeth Bible" was made from the J. W. Smith copies of the original notations in the Sleeth Bible by Robert B. Smith 7 Feb 1983.

Jesse Run Church Cemetery

This cemetery is located on Jesse Run, a branch of Hacker's Creek in the northeast section of Lewis County, W. Va. It is 3.7 miles upstream from the roads intersection of Jesse Run, Hacker's Creek and Interstate 79, near the town of Jane Lew. The church and the cemetery behind it is on the left, i.e., the north side of the highway. It is fenced and kept in excellent condition. Due to the fenced area running northwest to southeast, the rows are diagonally to the entrance, therefore the first rows, beginning at the west have only a few graves and are progressively longer to the east. Inscriptions copied 23 December 1982 by Hartzel G. Strader.

CEMETERY SURVEYS

Our members have been hard-at-work surveying various cemeteries in Lewis County. These will be published as space permits. To avoid duplication, if you have surveyed a cemetery, please notify Joy. In addition to those which have been published, the following cemeteries have been "done": Laurel Lick, the original Bethel Church Cemetery, Harmony, Wolfe Cemetery, Marple Cemetery, William L. Smith Cemetery.

Hartzel Strader found an old cemetery on a survey map south of the junction of Hacker's Creek and Buckhannon Run. It is not Buckhannon Run Cemetery. Does anyone know of it?

Roberta Hefner and Worthy Straley tell us that they know of at least 35 cemeteries (old) located in the Stonewall Jackson Dam area that are not going to be moved. The Army Corps claims there are only 8. Roberta and Worthy are attempting to take pictures and record the data on the tombstones in these cemeteries. They would appreciate help in this endeavor. Contact Roberta at P.O. Box 807, Weston, W. Va. 26452 if you wish to help so that work will not be duplicated and for locations.

LAWMAN
GRAVES

Jacob Wolfe was born in 1755 in Cornwall of Dutch descent according to the 1898 letter which was written by a son or daughter of Abraham Wolfe that is in the files of Robert Moore of Athens, Georgia. He was married to Anna Straley whose parentage is unknown. Jacob died in Lewis County in 1823 and Anna died 1822-1826; both are buried in the Wolfe Cemetery on Hacker's Creek. The cemetery is located on the high point of the John Herman farm about three miles up Hacker's Creek; with tall cedars around it, the cemetery contains about 60 graves. Also buried in the cemetery are these Wolfes: Jane S. Starcher (D. Feb. 7, 1865 - aged 53 y 9m 18d), wife of Jacob Starcher and daughter of Jacob and Anna Wolfe; Thomas Wolf (D. June 12, 1853 - 68 yrs old), son of Jacob and Anna; Phebe (Taylor) Wolf (D. July 8, 1845, in her 57 yr), first wife of Thomas; A.M. Wolf (B. Nov 2, 1831 - D. Oct 10, 1903).

My 4th great-grandfather was born April 12, 1788, a son of Jacob and Anna (Straley) Wolfe. His name was James Robert Wolfe and he was born and raised near the fort on Hacker's Creek not far from the present village of Jane Lew.

Here is a curious incident related in Wither's Chronicles of Border Warfare, pg. 67: "Jacob Wolfe, in digging a well on Hacker's Creek, found a piece of timber which had evidently been cut off at one end, twelve or thirteen feet in the ground, marks of the ax or hatchet were plainly visible on it."

The first Wolfe homestead was at the base of Wolfe Mountain east of Buckhannon.

Children of Jacob Woolf (Wolfe) and Anna Straley:

1. Mary (Mollie) was born 10 July 1782, married George Bush Jr. 17 June 1799 in a marriage recorded in Harrison County as performed by Jacob Cozad, and died 9 Jan 1831.
2. Jacob Jr. was born 1778. His first marriage was to Mary McCally; George Towers was the celebrant and it is recorded in Harrison County, W. Va. Jacob Cozad performed Jacob's second marriage to Mary Waggoner, daughter of John Waggoner, on 15 Apr 1800. This marriage also is recorded in Harrison County.
3. James Robert Wolfe was born 12 Apr 1788 and died 18 Apr 1872. He married Frances Beath in 1807. He was married a second time to Christina Straley, a daughter of George Straley by his first wife Elizabeth Bonnett; they were married 20 Aug 1841 by Rev. Henry R. Bonnett in Lewis County.
4. Abraham, born 1794, also was married twice. He and Rachel McClochan were married 21 Feb 1814. 19 Apr 1858 he married Ruth (Chapman) Straley, daughter of Valentine and Ruth (Stevens) Chapman and formerly married to George Straley Jr..

March 15, 1898

My grandfather Wolfe's (Abraham Sr. and wife Emily Boswell) Grandfather Wolfe (Jacob Wolfe was born in Cornwall of Dutch descent, and married a woman of Irish descent, and his grandfather & Grandmother, on his mother's side were both of Irish descent and from Ireland.

His Grandfather Wolfe's name was Jacob. His Grandfather Wolfe raised a family of 11 children, 8 boys and 3 girls. Boy's names were David, John, Jacob, Andrew, Jonathan, Abraham, Thomas, and the girls names were Mollie, Elizabeth and Nancy. Elizabeth married a Riggan. Mollie, the oldest, married a Bush, and Nancy, the youngest married a Miller. Jacob married but raised no children, the woman whom he married was (Waggoner) captured by the Indians when a girl.

Jonathan married a woman by the name of Runion and raised two children, David married a Cutright, Thomas married a Dutch woman. Jacob's woman's name was Wagner. All raised large families with the exceptions of the two I have mentioned. His Grandfather Wolfe came to Lewis County, in what is now W. Va., and was among the first settlers of that county. Abraham was the youngest, Jacob the older and Jonathan next to Abraham. James was also one of his grandfather's children.

His father's name was James and he married a Beathe. Her name was Fanny. He was married in Lewis Co. His wife was of Irish descent, they raised 11 children, Rebecca, George, Peggy, Abraham, Nancy, Catharine, Thomas, Joseph, Mary, Jacob, and James. All born in Lewis County with the exception of the three younger which were born in Jackson Co.

James, his wife and 8 children came to this county* in 1821 in October, a very dry fall. His uncle's Jacob and Thomas came through with him and then went back. His father settled on the waters of Mill Creek near Mt. Olive Church and purchased land in a year after his settlement. He traded farms afterward and moved to Elk Fork of Big Mill Creek. When he came here this county was almost a wilderness, with deer, bear, wild cats and wolves were plentiful. As his father did in the fall he would spend about a month in hunting, by which he procured his meat and got plenty to sell which he would carry to Charleston on a horse and wagon only a path to travel by.

When his father and his family came, here they came through by horse back and carried all they brought with them and also carried their provisions with them to last them through the winter.

My Grandfather (Abraham Sr.) had to go to Point Pleasant and to (Letart?) one time, to each place to muster each year. The first courts held in this county, were held close to where John Greer now lives. My Grandfather used to have to attend court at Point Pleasant.

What few citizens that lived here at the time Grandfather came here, put in their principal time in hunting and sports of different kinds - horse racing and dancing and drinking on Sunday. His mother died about 1843 and is buried close to Mt. Olive church on the waters of Mill Creek and his father married a Straley by the name of Tena and raised one child by his last wife by the name of Lewis Wolfe. His father died between 1850-1860 and is buried on Elk Fork waters of Big Mill Creek. Grandfather Wolfe was married to Emily Boswell in 1833, Nov 26 on Parohment below the forks of the creek a small distance. Lived on Mill Creek a year and then came back to his father-in-law's and, he bought land about a mile and a half above the fork's of the creek and moved there in the fall of

Their children's name's were Willy, Nehemiah, Virginia, Mason, Margaret, Mary Jane, Birdie, Abraham, John, and America. The oldest one died about 4 weeks after he was born in 1837. Grandmother died in April 1868. Grandfather was married again to Jemema Kessel.

Boswell's were of English descent. Grandmother Wolfe's parents names were Gilbert and Elizabeth Boswell from Virginia. They raised 11 children of which 5 are living at this time.

My Grandfather Wolfe's grandfather Wolfe lived on Hacker's Creek in Lewis County and has to go frequently five miles to a fort to escape the scalping knife of the Indians.

Uncle George Wolfe married a woman by the name of Crites. Uncle Jacob married Sallie Boswell. Aunt Peggy married Isaac Crites, Aunt Nancy married Elija Baker, Aunt Katie married a Wallander, Aunt Mary married an Armstrong and a brother to Jacob Armstrong. Uncle Jacob married first time a Seares and the second time a Straley. Uncle Thurman married a Garner. Uncle Joseph married Elizabeth Alkire. Uncle Lewis Wolfe, Grandfather's half brother, married Janie Welsh. All the children are dead at this writing except three boys and one girl, and Lewis Wolfe - a half brother.

Correspondence from Ruth Flesher Robb

I would like, at this time, to correct an erroneous statement about my having done research on Alkire. Strange as it may seem, I have recently been getting letters on Alkire and I tell them all the same thing: that I have done no research per se on Alkire, but will be glad to pass on any Alkire records that I have and were simply gathered up along the way as I was researching other names.

Flesher is another story. I have spent much time over the past 20 years researching this family, and have been lucky in some respects. However, when applying recently for membership in the DAR, it was necessary to go in on a maternal line because I couldn't document some of the Flesher records in my possession. I am still hopeful, however, that some proof that I need will come to light.

Correction on Linger Story

Received a letter from Howard Bonnett. He pointed out an error in the LINGER write-up (Vol. I, Issue 3, pg. 50) about Samuel BONNETT's wife being Elizabeth LORENTZ. He is not sure of that. I had gotten it from one of his newsletters and seemed reasonable to me.

ADDENDUM FROM Joy

The other 48 pages of this issue of the Journal are typed and mimeographed. I have learned a lot - about stencils and about the machine. There may be a page or two in your issue that is not well-centered. These were operational problems and have been corrected. It cost almost $300 to print Issue 3; this issue with 10 more pages will cost less than $100. We think the savings are worth it. How about you?

Betty and I have been asked about printing schedule and our year. We decided that the year should run from October 1 to October 1, i.e., anyone who pays dues anytime between October 1, 1982 and October 1, 1983, will receive all issues of the Journal published during that time with the exception of Issue 1 which was the program from the first Gathering. Because we have called The Program Issue 1, there will be 5 issues in this Volume. Our publication schedule is: October, January, April and July. Items for publication in each issue should be sent to us not later than the first day of the month of publication.

LETTER FROM JOY

Dear Fellow Pioneers:

Plans for the upcoming gathering are moving along at a rapid pace. We have lots of reservations and it looks like it will be an enjoyable weekend for everyone. If you have not made reservations for lodging or meals, but would still like to attend, pack a lunch and come along and join us. The more the merrier!!!!

I'm still looking for someone to help re-type Issue 3. I've found indexers for all of Volume I. Hopefully, the index will be to you by reunion time.

We're settled in our new home - at last. There's plenty of room for company if any of you happen to be passing through on I-77 or I-70. We'd love to have you.

Our membership is still growing by leaps and bounds. Consequently, our requests for back issues has exhausted our supply. We are in the process of trying to correct the situation and hope that our new members will bear with us. In an effort to keep this from happening again, we are printing 200 copies of this issue.

For those of you who do not get "The Hillbilly", Lola's Sleeth Family was reprinted in it in August 1983.

We're sorry for the delay in this issue - it's a couple of weeks late - but I've had too many irons in the fire.

A brief note for the new members who receive the reprinted issues of 2 & 3. The spacing is not quite the same as in the original issues, but the contents are on the same pages so that the index will be good for those issues as well as the original ones. Our type size changed between off-set printing and mimeographing.

At last year's gathering, we had some problems with books being misplaced. PLEASE be sure that books and papers which you bring with you are clearly marked with your name and address. We've all invested a lot of time and money in our various family trees - and, in some cases, papers are irreplaceable.

Looking forward to seeing each and every one of you on October 1 and 2 at Jackson's Mill. Have a safe journey.

See ya' there -

JOY L. Gilchrist

SOME INTERESTING COMMUNICATIONS

Recent mail has brought some interesting and exciting communications and show the many ways people are learning about our organization. We want to share a couple of them with you.

July 13, 1983

Dear Betty:

Please find enclosed my check for membership in the Hacker's Creek Descendants Group. My name is Ronald Gloy Lawson, and my address is 1373 St. Joseph Circle, St. Joseph, Michigan 49085.

I am absolutely delighted to be able to join your organization and look forward to being able to join a future gathering some October. How I came to learn about the group is really unusual and more than coincidental.

I've been tracing my ancestors for about three years, since I was given a family Bible by my father Royce Burke Lawson. Listings in the Bible went back to my great-great grandfather Henry Cornelius Lawson. That wasn't far enough back for me, however, so I kept digging. I wasn't able to find much, because of lack of time to research and my distance from West Virginia, until my grandmother, Bertha (Burke) Lawson, wife of William Gloy Lawson, told me to go see Mrs. R. F. (Mildred) Pringle on Laurel Lick. So off I went to meet Midred, and my wife and I were amazed what she knew about the Lawson's. The most amazing thing she told us was about my great-great-great grandfather, William M. Lawson, Jr., and his wife Nancy Myers. They were the ones who came to Laurel Lick in 1842 and bought land, stayed and raised 18 children. Mildred knew all of the children's names and told us where William, Jr. is buried on the old farm near the end of Laurel Lick on property now owned by Arno Gould. The family cemetery is grown over, but we found it. William is buried there along with seven of his children that died young plus several children of people that lived and worked on William's farm. I have not, however, been able to confirm that William's wife, Nancy, is buried there also.

Mildred told me that William and Nancy came to Laurel Lick from Harrison County near Brushy Fork and Beard's Run. Sure enough, we learned later that she was right. After that, we were able to put bits and pieces together, but I still wasn't able to trace the Lawson's any further back than William and Nancy.

This summer we came back to West Virginia and decided to check the courthouses in Clarksburg and Weston. While in Clarksburg, we met Benjamin Mitchell, one of your members, and he helped us a lot with our digging in courthouse records and got us back two more generations to William Lawson, Sr. and his wife Rebecca Grigsby, and on back to John Lawson and his wife Rebecca Smith. But then we ran out of time and I still didn't know which ancestor had come to this country nor when. Mr.

Mitchell also told us about the group and the gathering this coming October -- God bless him for his help.

We then went to see Mildred Pringle again to tell her what we had learned. She was as excited as we were with everything. When I told her about the group, she told us she knew all about it and had been excitedly waiting to show me the first four issues of the Journal. As we sat there talking, I started looking through the "program" issue and saw the name Rubert Lawson. I asked Mildred if she knew Rubert, and she said she did; but she didn't think he was a relation of mine. BUT when I started reading what he had to say about his ancestors, I nearly fell off of my chair! There, in black and white, were names I was familiar with including John and Rebecca. Rubert not only had the names, but knew that John was the Lawson that came to this country and how, after landing in Charleston, South Carolina, had come to settle in what is now Harrison County. To top everything else, Rubert now lives in Sturgis, Michigan, just one hours from where I live!

I have been in contact with him, and we are going to get together real soon to share information. Some people would probably say all of this has been a coincidence, but crazy or not, I think old William and Nancy were looking out for me and arranged all this.

Then on top of everything else, on our last morning in West Virginia, we went to the Lewis County Courthouse to dig a little more. While there, we ran into Joy Gilchrist and her husband and son. See what I mean -- all of what happened that week couldn't have been a coincidence. I'm looking forward to learning more about the Lawson's if anyone can help, and I will be glad to share everything I have learned with whoever might be interested. Good luck with the group and Journal and keep up the excellent work.

Sincerely yours,
Ronald Gloy Lawson

Benny Mitchell has been one of our bright and shining stars! His smiling face has greeted more than one HCPD'er in the record room at the Harrison County Courthouse. Thanks, Benny, for spreading the word. Mrs. Pringle has also shared her wealth of knowledge with our members on more than one occasion. Thanks to her, too.

Ron, William and Nancy certainly must have been looking over your shoulder. I only had two hours to visit in Weston that day. Joy

July 11, 1983

Dear Mrs. Graybill,

It is difficult to introduce myself, because my story is quite lengthy but fascinating. I was adopted within two days of my birth, May 10, 1947 in Kokomo, Indiana. My natural mother was Mildred Bernice Cox of Kokomo, Indiana. I regret I never had the opportunity to meet her and talk with her. But I was informed of her death last year, July 2, 1982, in Elkhart, Indiana. I went to the funeral home and during the funeral days, I met my two half-brothers, and my three half-sisters (we all had the same mother, but different fathers). Since then, we have become great friends, a family!

In our South Bend Tribune's Genealogical Column of July 3, 1983, I came across the announcement of "The Second Annual Hacker's Creek (W.Va) Pioneer Descendants Gatherings" on October 1 and 2, 1983.

My natural mother had begun a Genealogy Book of our family. I have this book and I will be continuing to gather information for it. I have gathered some information and one piece of information gives me the idea that we are Hacker Descendants.

The following obituary article is this information. We believe this gentleman was our great-grandmother's grandfather. If you can confirm this or give us further information on the Hackers, please send it to me.

"A. Noted Mason Dead - The Demise of William Hacker at a ripe old age. Shelbyville, Indiana - July 29, 1891.

William Hacker died today, aged ninety-two. No man was better known in the masonic fraternity than William Hacker, who has been an active member for fifty-nine years.

In the year 1498 so far as is now known, his line of descent commenced at the birth of Wilhelm Heckardt, near the city of Dresden in Saxony. The descendants of Hacker fled to Holland and thence, in 1725, to America. They settled in Virginia and in 1773 John Hacker, father of the subject of this sketch was born in a block house on the west fork of the Monongahela. In 1809 John and his family moved to what was then known as the Big Darby plains in Ohio, and on Dec. 5, 1810, William Hacker was born.

He lived with his parents until he was seventeen, during which time he went in winter to school and obtained a common education. In 1839 he and Miss May Ann Sargent of Pennsylvania were united in marriage. He came with his father to Shelby county in 1833 and has resided here ever since. In 1838 he embarked in the mercantile business and continued in it five years. In 1843 he assisted in the organization of a railroad company, became its secretary and superintended the construction of the road.

He was made a mason by St. John Lodge, No. 14, in Dayton, O, in July 9, 1832, and has been an officer in the various grades of the order ever since, having gone entirely through and completely mastered the craft. He became a member of the grand lodge of Indiana in 1835 and served as its grand master and grand secretary for two and three years respectfully.

He became a member of the Grand Chapter of Indiana in 1848 and assisted in its labors every session since. He served four years as grand high Priest and three years as grand secretary. He assisted in the organization of the Grand Council of Indiana in 1855 and served six years as its grand master and three years as its grand recorder. He also assisted in the organization of the grand commandery of knights templars of Indiana in 1854 and filled every station in that body from recorder to grand commander. For the past twenty-four years he has been annually placed at the head of the committee on jurisprudence in all those bodies.

He became a member of the general grand chapter and grand encampment of the United States at Hartford, Conn., in 1856 and held an office in those bodies twelve years.

He joined the methodist episcopal church in 1825 and has lived a consistent Christian to his death."

I would appreciate more information on the Oct. 1,2 festivities (special room rate? which motel? and are there other motels in the area) and the banquet information.

At this moment, I would love to attend the Gathering. I am a full time teacher and I have two children and a husband, but if arrangements can be made, I may join in the festivities.

Please reply and send the above information on the weekend festivities as soon as possible. If I am unable to be with you, I may be interested in the quarterly and a newsletter that you publish.

Thank you and I hope to hear from you soon.

Sincerely,

Joyce E. Chambers (Mrs. James M. Chambers)

First, a big THANKS to the unidentified member of HCPD who submitted the gathering information to the Tribune. Other correspondence indicates that the same party submitted the same info to the Indianapolis Star. We've had lots of correspondence as a result - and found many more HCPDs.

Now to correct some errors in the information gathered by Joyce. William Hacker who died in 1891 was a grandson, not a son, of John and Margaret (Sleeth) Hacker, the Lewis County settler; he was a son of John and Susannah (Smith) Hacker - with this John being the eldest son of John and Margaret. Susannah was a daughter of David and Lydia (Ball) Smith.

William Hacker (1810-1891) married Mary Ann Sargent (1817-1902) 20 Jan 1839 in Shelbyville, Ind. They had the following children: Clara Belle who m. J.A. Conroy; Caroline Amanda; Frances M.; William A.; Thomas; Laura M.; and Eliza.

It should also be noted that William was the author of the Hacker Manuscripts (See Vol. 1 - Issue 2).

JOHN TURNER SMITH'S DIARY

John Turner Smith was the son of the Rev. John Smith and his wife, the former Mary "Polly" Swisher. This excerpt from his diary was copied from the original diary in 1979 by Harold E. Smith of Kerrville, Texas. His father was the Wilson in the story. When Harold was young, Wilson would tell what happened and explain that the mentioned gun was a breechloader and the children were familiar with "muzzle-loaders". This gun had no outside percussion cap for the hammer to strike, so they thought the gun was safe. How wrong they were!

"Dec. 28

I want to state something that happened in 1886 which I never found out until today. At that time I was living on my farm two miles South of Burns, in Butler county Kansas. Some men came past my place on Sunday and stopped during a rain storm and as it was raining when they left, they left a shot gun at my house. Some time during the week my youngest boy, Wilson age 9 and my youngest daughter Myrtie age 12, were left alone for the day. (Their mother died two years earlier.) As they were fond of playing they took the gun and played shooting hogs, by snapping it at each other, letting on that they were butchering. Keeping it up for some time thinking it fun. After awhile they began to tire of their play. Myrtie, said to Wilson, 'we must kill two more hogs a piece and then quit such work for the folks will be at home soon.' She then took the gun and cocked it and took aim at Wilson's head when he said, 'Myrtie that looks too dangerous' and stepped aside. She then said, 'I will kill the dog.' She then aimed at the dog, pulled the trigger and killed the dog. The gun had been loaded but they did not know it. This has been kept a secret from me up to the present time."

In 1906 John Turner Smith entered this story in a contest conducted by the "Kansas Farmers Mail and Breeze" and won second prize. The little girl, Myrtie, lived until 1904. Wilson died in 1957.

FIRST FAMILIES

This issues featured first family is that of the Collins for whom Collins Settlement was named. Written by Clarissa Tatterson, author of History and Genealogy of the Collins Family, it is the culmination of twenty three years of work by her. We present it in its entirety.

John Collins of Frederick County, Virginia
Later of Hacker's Creek

by
Clarissa Tatterson
1982

The endless list of John Collins in this country made it almost impossible to identify and place my ancestor John Collins in the pages of history. After twenty three years of research and sorting the different John Collins, I finally was able to trace my John Collins back to Ireland where he was born about 1715.

The first record I found was in Pennsylvania where John Collins emigrated to Philadelphia. "John Collins, of Philadelphia, laborer, in consideration of 10.4 by him due and owing to Daniel Boyle of Philadelphia County yeoman, indents himself a servant to Daniel Boyle for one year and a half from this date." This was date Sept. 22, 1745. Further in the list of immigrants is listed, "Robert Wakely assigns Thomas McGuire (a servant from Ireland in the snow George) to William Caughdry for four years from Sept. 22nd, 1745 Consideration 16; customary dues." This list was the account of servants bound and assigned before John Hamilton, Mayor of Philadelphia. Thomas McGuire's emigration is mentioned here as he appears as a partner with John Collins in the list of Frederick Co., Va. Clerk's fees for the years 1744-45 for 233 pounds of tobacco. John Collins was also assessed for 620 pounds of tobacco.

Evidently, John Collins and Thomas McGuire were persuaded it was better to be a tenant farmer in Virginia, than a bound servant in Philadelphia. It was mutually beneficial to the tenants and to the large land holders such as Joist Hite, to loan them the money to pay off their bonds and move them to Winchester, Virginia. The huge, Joist Hite and John Van Meter land grants, were given by the Council of Virginia, on the basis that they would bring in settlers to Frederick County, Virginia.

John Collins prospered in Frederick County, as we next find him buying land in Hampshire County, Virginia, "a certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Hampshire and state of Virginia was granted to John Collins of Frederick County and state of aforesaid by patent from the right honorable Thomas Lord Fairfax in the year one thousand seven hundred and forty nine." He purchased a second tract of land from Mary Wolfe 400 acres in Hampshire County Aug. 12, 1766. John Collins also owned 133 acres on Little Ca apelon and 119 acres on the South Branch of the Potomac. These latter two tracts were sold to John Keating in 1765. He retained possession of the Fairfax grant and the Mary Wolfe tract until his death. John Collins had moved back to Frederick County, Virginia by 1766, when he bought the tract of land from Mary Wolfe. The deeds that John Collins had made did not have a dower signature. We can assume his wife had died before 1765. Just what took John back to Frederick County, Va., we do not know. It was not long before he was on the move again as we find him living on 300 acres of land on Morgan Run, a branch of Cheat River, 1769. John got this land by "Settlement Right."⁵ This survey shows that John Collins' tract was adjacent to that of (Rev.) Jacob Cozad. He lived on this land until April 20, 1781, when he sold it to Samuel Lewellin. The courthouse burned in Morgantown, Virginia, in 1795 which makes the movements of John Collins very difficult to follow. Fortunately the survey books were saved.

John Collins moved to Harrison County, Virginia, prior to 1785 as he and his son George are listed in the 1785 census of Harrison County as living in the West Fork settlement.⁶ John Collins Sr. died on Stoney Run, Hackers Creek, Harrison County, Virginia, prior to 1795 as the deed dated 1795 for the sale of the 400 acres of land in Hampshire County by John Jr. and Hannah indicates that they obtained the land from John Collins, his father deceased.⁷

John Collins must not be confused with the John Collins who settled in the Manor near the Indian Village (North of site of Moorefield) and that George Washington and Thomas Lord Fairfax spent the night. He came to the colonies from England where he had been a jail keeper.

Another John Collins came from Hampshire County with a group of men to defeat the Indians at Wheeling, Virginia. They were ambushed by the Indians below Wheeling where John was wounded in the leg. He later moved to Zanesville and lived his remaining days.⁹

A John Collins established by law a ferry Dec. 9, 1791; at the mouth of Robinson Run. John Collins of Frederick County was living in Harrison County at that time.¹⁰

There was a John Collins who owned and operated a tavern in Uniontown, Pa. He died 1813 in Uniontown, Pa.

John Collins died without a will and his sons distributed his property without probate. The only children I can prove are his three sons Thomas, John Jr., and George. Deed records show that each of these sons received a farm.

Thomas received the patent land of 140 acres that John had bought from Thomas Lord Fairfax in 1749. The deed states that Thomas was the son and heir of John Collins.⁵

John Collins Jr. received the 400 acres of land that his father purchased from Mary Wolfe. The deed states, "being the land that was originally granted by Patent by the late Lord Fairfax to Mary Nisewanger (late Mary Wolfe) bearing the 21th day of November A.D. 1757 and which was afterwards conveyed by the said Mary Wolfe to John Collins de'd, father of the said John."¹¹

George Collins received the home place of John Collins Sr. on Stoney Run, Lewis County, Virginia. The deed sale does not mention how George obtained the property.²⁰ George's Revolutionary War record states that he settled on his father's farm 1791.

I. Thomas Collins

Thomas Collins, the father of Daniel, immigrated from Ireland with his parents as an infant. He married about 1774 Elizabeth Sprigge Cresap, daughter of Col. Daniel and Ruth (Swearingen) Cresap. He died in 1820 in Hampshire County, Virginia, where his will is recorded.⁴

Thomas served in the Revolutionary War in Virginia. The deed records in Hampshire County show that he was a planter. He served as County Commissioner.¹⁹ Thomas had the following children:¹²

1. Charity b. 1776 m. Abraham Johnston. Their children:
 - a. Emily Ruth m. Luther M. Dawson
 - b. Edwin
 - c. Elizabeth

II. John Collins Jr.

John Collins Jr. was born about 1750 in Frederick County, Virginia. The Collins moved to Monongalia County, Virginia, in 1769 where John Sr. got 300 acres by "Settlement Right." The survey of this tract of land on Morgan Run, forks of Cheat River shows (Rev.) Jacob Cozad III adjacent to John Collins' land.⁵ It was here that John Collins Jr. won Rev. Jacob Cozad's daughter Hannah for his wife. They were married about 1771 by Hannah's father or by Rev. Isaac Sutton, founder of the Great Bethel Baptist Church at Uniontown, Pa. This church sponsored the organization of the Forks of the Cheat River Baptist Church on Nov. 5, 1775. Rev. Jacob Cozad was a brother-in-law to Isaac Sutton. There is a tradition in the Fork of Cheat River Baptist Church, that there was a huge oak tree that stood where the church stands today. It was called the "marriage tree." Perhaps John and Hannah were married under this tree.

Shortly after they were married they left for N.J., they lived there about fifteen years during which time Hannah's grandfather Rev. David Sutton died.¹⁵ John and Hannah were the only witnesses to his will in 1775. How long John and Hannah lived in New Jersey we don't know but they were in Fayette County, Pa., 1786 as Elizabeth was born there.¹⁸ They lived with Hannah's sister Mary (Cozad) Cutler while in Fayette Co., Pa.

The next we learn of them, they were living at the mouth of Big Buffalo on West Fork River. He bought the land in Sept. 23, 1785, and moved sometime later.¹³

John Collins Jr. and his sons Cornelius,¹⁴ Jacob, and Isaac established the Collins settlement in Harrison Co., Va. 1797, (now Walkersville in Lewis County) on 50 acres tracts of land given to them for a cent, by George Jacson on the condition they would move on the property and remain until the settlement was permanently established. They moved from his farm on Big Buffalo in Harrison County to the settlement in the winter 1797-98 and remained there until about 1817 when the family with the exception of his son Issac S. and daughter Elizabeth Burnside moved to Salem Township, Warren County, Ohio.

John Collins Jr. died about 1835. The last record we have of Hannah is 1828 when John and Hannah sold their farm in Warren Co., Ohio. John Jr. was replaced as guardian of his son George's children by the probate court after his death.¹⁶ He is buried in the abandoned cemetery where the Rossburg Methodist Episcopal Church formerly stood.

John Mitchell of Lewis County as Magistrate and Parson age 70 yr has known Collins 20 years. Collins worked for him a many a day. Marriages

In preparation of publishing the marriage records of Harrison County from 1784 to 1818 and Lewis County from 1818, we submit these definitions of terms as sent to Harizel Strader of Minniston, Ore., by Mr. Fowler of the Virginia State Library at Richmond, Virginia.

DEFINITIONS OF TERMS

Marriage Bond

Marriages in colonial Virginia, which had from the beginning been performed according to the laws of England and rubric of the Prayer Book of the Anglican Church, were the subject of a comprehensive statute when the 1661/62 code of laws was put into effect. Briefly, the law was that a marriage might be performed by authority of a license granted by the Governor of the colony or an official appointed by him; or by authority of banns published on three successive Sundays or holy days in the parish churches.

In 1660/61 was first enacted the law requiring a bond. This law stated that since there was a scarcity of ministers in some areas, and since the Governor could not be acquainted with all who applied for licenses, a person wishing to be married by license must go to the county court clerk and give bond with sufficient security that there was no lawful cause to prevent the marriage. The license was then prepared by the clerk, and presented to the minister who would perform the ceremony.

Marriage License

According to Black's Law Dictionary, a marriage license is a license or permission granted by public authority to persons who intend to marry. "By statute in some jurisdictions it is made an essential prerequisite to the lawful solemnization of marriage." It will be seen that this definition applied to the use of the term license in the discussion above.

Consent

The first marriage statute contained the stipulation that in the case of infants (those under twenty-one) wishing to be married, the parents or guardians must signify consent either in person or by sufficient testimony. This provision continued in force. The amplified law of 1705 stated that a person under twenty-one must have the consent of parent or guardian given in the presence of the clerk, or signed "under seal" and attested by two witnesses.

Publication of Banns

Marriage "by publication" meant that during the church service a public announcement was given in the parish churches on three successive Sundays or worship days that a marriage between A and B would take place. After due publication, the minister performed the ceremony.

Banns constituted a legal substitute for a license; moreover, the fees for a marriage by banns were only about one-fourth as much as for a marriage by license. On the other hand, marriage by banns took a much longer time than by license, as the law stipulated that not less than two weeks must elapse between the first and third publication; this meant a period of at least fifteen days, usually longer.

During the colonial period marriages by license, i.e. the bonds, were filed or recorded at the court house of the county in which the bride lived; but marriages by banns were recorded only in the church or parish register.

The custom of performing marriages by banns seems to have fallen into disuse in Tidewater not long after the Revolution, but continued in the western counties by ministers of most denominations until almost 1848, when the law making banns a legal substitute for the license was repealed.

Certificates

The use of the word "certificate" in regard to marriage records may have one of several meanings. For example, the term was used in the law requiring ministers to report the marriages they had solemnized, and this is its most frequent use. (See Ministers' Returns)

But earlier (1657) the law stated that no license was to be issued without a certificate, i.e. consent, given under the hands of the parents, masters or guardians of the parties to be married, if under age. This same use of the word may be found in records of a much later period.

The law also made particular use of the word if stating that if a parish were without a minister and if a clerk or reader (or at a later date, a justice) legally appointed to do so, had published the banns, that person must give to the parties to be married a certificate that their intention had been thrice published.

An act of 1858, amended 1861, stipulated that the clerk issuing a marriage license require from the person obtaining the license a certificate "setting forth as near as may be" the date and place of the proposed marriage, the full names of both parties, ages and conditions (widowed or single), places of birth and residence, names of parents, and the occupation of the husband. The same information had been required since 1853, but the certificate assumed a standard form and included the name of the minister. All of this information was transferred to the county register. Some of the Marriage Records or Marriage Registers after 1861 are made up of these certificates.

Ministers' Returns

Until 1780 marriages might be performed legally only by ministers of the Established Church, who were required by law to record marriages in the parish register, the official record. In 1780 was passed the first act permitting dissenting ministers (only four per county from each sect) to perform marriage ceremonies.

in order that an official record of all marriages might be preserved, this law required that a certificate of each marriage solemnized by a minister be submitted to the county court clerk, to be entered in a book kept for that purpose. Such certificates are known as "dissenting" returns.

Many ministers seem to have been quite casual in their observance of the law, some even ignoring it altogether. Others adopted a custom of making collected returns, each such being a list of marriages performed within a period of time, perhaps a year, perhaps several years. Since ministers were in some instances lax, forgetful, or both, obviously such records were not always correct.

Marriages for which no licenses were issued, as by banns, became of record only by the ministers observing the law in making the returns. Usually the phrase "by publication" appeared on such certificates.

In 1783 the law recognized that the scarcity of ministers in the western counties had produced a situation whereby not only dissenting ministers, but some magistrates and others not authorized by law had been induced to solemnize marriages. To remedy the situation, the law empowered the county courts to license certain "discreet laymen" (justices) to celebrate the rite of matrimony; also, the courts could declare valid earlier marriages performed by these justices, as well as the earlier marriages performed by the dissenting ministers.

The amended act of 1784 allowed any ordained minister to perform marriages. Also, Quakers and Mennonites were permitted to marry under their own customs, but the clerk of the meeting was to make a return to the county court clerk. However, as Friends' (Quaker) marriages were not regularly reported until about the year 1825, many such marriages may appear only in Friends' records.

Marriage Records; Marriage Register

During the colonial period in Virginia the law required that every marriage be recorded in a true and perfect parish register, which also recorded christenings and burials. After 1780, ministers were required to report all marriages to the county court clerk, whose duty it was to see that the returns were entered in a book kept for that purpose. The county record books which have survived are sometimes titled "Marriage Records," sometimes "Marriage Register(s)."

The act of 1853 which resulted in the establishment of the Bureau of Vital Statistics required that in every county there be kept birth, marriage and death registers, each to have a standard form. The marriage register was to contain the information referred to under Certificates. Most county record books after 1853 were compiled according to the standard form and are designated Marriage Registers.

The VSL Marriage Registers were compiled by Library staff members from marriage bonds and other original source material brought from the respective counties. They are not official county records.

Ministers and Justices of the Peace

While many of the marriages in Harrison and Lewis County and surrounding areas were performed by the ministers and Justices of the Peace at their residences, some were performed at the homes of the brides, grooms or other family members. We are making an effort to determine the place of residence of some of the early ministers and J.P.'s of the Hacker's Creek area, as well as those in surrounding areas. Listed below are several of these men who performed the marriages recorded in the records of Harrison and Lewis Counties. If anyone can provide more information about these men, please send that information to Ministers & J.P.'s, % Joy Gilchrist, 2963 Farmington Circle SW, Canton, Oh 44706. The results of this survey will be published in Vol. I, Issue 5.

1. Jacob Westfall - performed the first marriage recorded in Harrison County, now W. Va., in 1784.
2. Isaac Edwards-performed marriages in Harrison County 1785-1789.
3. J. W. Loofbourow - performed marriages 1785-ca 1800 in Harrison County.
4. Benjamin Webb - performed marriages beginning in 1799.
5. John Denham - performed his first marriage in Harrison County in 1790.

HISTORY OF CHURCHVILLE

by
Teresa Rowan

Among the first settlers were the Winans, the Vendeevers, and Frank McCluster's family around the year of 1800.

Churchville was first named after Frank McCluster, being called Franktown. Most of the McCluster generation is still living in Churchville. Frank and his family built four churches on the property on which he owned. The four churches were the Baptist, Methodist, United Brethern, and Catholic. Trustees for the United Brethern Church were Peter Hull, Morgan McCluster, and Boyd Gum. Oscar and Ruffis Shevorent purchased, or some believe was given, the land and the church from the McClusters.

Israel "Liz" Simmons lived in Freemansburg and owned land from Freemansburg to Issac Fork, which is the most of Churchville. He owned approximately 3000 acres.

Noah Snyder was the first preacher of Churchville, who is now buried in the Snyder Cemetery. This cemetery was given by the Winan's sisters, and was originally called the Three Sisters Cemetery, but is now called the Snyder Cemetery. The three sisters were Margaret Gum, Mary Hull, and Susan Snyder. The cemetery mainly consists of Gums and Rowans who pay a donation to keep the cemetery cleaned and mowed. The first person to be buried in the cemetery was Joseph D. Gum on February 25, 1910.

Churchville also has one family descending from Stonewall Jackson's generation, Bob White, whose grandmother was a sister to Cummings Jackson, Stonewall's Uncle.

The first doctor in Churchville was Doc McKinley. He lived behind the Church and also practiced there. The second doctor was Doc Edward Thomas Wade Hall, who opened the first hospital in his home and one of his first operations was an appendectomy. The operation was on a patient by the name of Adda Romine who was only eleven years of age.

The first undertaking establishment was directed by Mason and A. W. Priest. It was the first and the only undertaking or Funeral Home in Churchville. Part of the funeral home was built into a store. His house was built to the left of the business which they owned. When his home burned he and his family moved into the store section of the establishment.

A popular store in Churchville was located across from the Church. The store was a company store. It was first run by Hoy Wiseman. Preceding him were Frank Gum, Nick Hull, and Bessie and Charles McCluster. Bessie and Charles had the store condemned and torn down and built their home in which Bessie still resides today.

The Romine store was just across from the last store and called McClusters store. It was owned by Burt Romine and then taken over by his son, Ora, after his death. The store was still standing until the year of 1980, but was not in operation. It was torn down due to the condition of the building.

McClusters also had a hotel which was run by Albert Gum, in their home.

Over the top of the Romine store, was a hotel established with a switchboard. It was called the Woodsman Lodge.

Directly behind the store owned by the Romine's was a gristmill which provided the service of grinding both flour and mill. The makers and producers of this business were Jesse Gum, Albert Gum, and Ira Simmons.

In the 1920's the major employment was directed to the Gas and Oil wells which were plentiful in Churchville at this time.

The schoolhouse which is still standing today but not in use, was a one-room schoolhouse. There was a boardwalk built from the road to the schoolhouse to make it easier for the children so that they wouldn't have to climb the hill. The children went to school from first to eighth grade; after the eighth year they received a diploma in acknowledgement of their eight year devotion to school and their knowledge. School hours were from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Each child walked to school, some even as much as three miles.

In August of 1924 the road was graded out and the hard surfacing was finally finished in 1925. It was great excitement in 1925 for the children, as well as the adults, to see the first automobile, driven by Herb Hawkins, speeding down the road.

THE AMERICAN PIONEER

The American Pioneer was a monthly publication "devoted to the objects of the Logan Historical Society, or to the truth and justice of history; being a collection of historical incidents, &c., relative to the first settlement and successive improvements of the country." Published in Chillicothe, Ohio, by John S. Williams in the 1840's, the magazine contained some articles of interest to the members of HCPD. Some of the original publications are in the files of the Coshocton County Public Library, Coshocton, Ohio; and these stories were copied from them.

ANECDOTES OF JESSE HUGHES.

Jenny's Camp, Darby, Jan. 14, 1842.

Mr. Jno. S. Williams:

Dear Sir, - You desired me to give you an account of an expedition against the Indians, in which Jesse Hughes acted so conspicuous a part. Hughes was bred up from his infancy in the hotbed of Indian warfare, in Harrison county, Virginia, on the head waters of the Monongahela river, in the village of Clarksburgh. He was a light built spare man, and remarkably active on foot, and from his constant practice of hunting, he became one of the best woodsmen and Indian hunters of his day.

The following circumstance he related to me himself, and it has been fully corroborated since by Mr. Joseph Harness, who was in the expedition with him. The precise date of the transaction I do not recollect, but I think it was near 1790. The Indians, about that time, seldom did any other mischief in that neighborhood but steal horses. The Indians, generally, crossed the Ohio river above Marietta, and it was a dense forest from the Ohio to Clarksburgh, a distance of sixty or seventy miles. The settlement had been a considerable time without an Indian alarm. All were quiet on their farms. It happened one night a man heard the fence of a small lot, he had a horse in, fall; he jumped up and ran out, and saw an Indian spring on the horse and dash off. The whole settlement was alarmed in an hour or two, and they had a company of twenty-five or thirty men paraded, ready to start by daylight next morning. They took a circle round, outside of the settlement, and soon found the trail of apparently eight or ten horses, and, they supposed, about that many Indians. The captain called a halt, and held a council to determine in what manner to pursue them. The captain and a majority of the company were for pursuing them on their trail. Mr. Hughes was opposed to it, he said he could pilot them to the spot where the Indians would cross the Ohio, by a nearer way than the Indians could go, and if they could get there before the Indians, they could intercept them at the river and be sure of success. But the commander insisted on pursuing the trail. Mr. Hughes then tried another argument: he pointed out the danger in trailing the Indians. He insisted that the Indians would waylay their trail, in order to know if they were pursued, and would choose a situation where they could shoot two or three of them and set them a defiance, and then alarm the others; and the Indians, when alarmed, would out-travel them and make their escape. The commander found that Hughs was like to get a majority for his plan, and appeared to be jealous that if Hughs' plan was followed, he would lose the honor of planning the expedition. Hughs, by some, was considered too wild for the command, and it was nothing but jealousy kept him from it, for in the most of their Indian excursions, Hughs got the honor of the best plan, or did the best act that was performed. The commander then broke up the council by calling aloud to the men to follow him and let the cowards go home, and dashed off full speed, and the men all followed him. Hughs knew the captain's remark was intended for him and felt the insult in the highest degree, but he followed on with the rest. They had not pursued many miles until the trail went down a drain where the ridge on one side was very steep, with a ledge of rocks for a considerable distance. On the top of the cliff two Indians lay in ambush, and when the company got opposite to them they made a noise of some kind, that caused the men to stop: that instant two of the company were shot and mortally wounded. They now found Hughs' prediction fully verified, for they had to ride so far round before they could get up the cliff, that the Indians made their escape with ease.

They then all agreed that Hughs' plan was the best, and urged him to pilot them to the Ohio river where the Indians would cross. He agreed to do it; but was afraid it was too late, for the Indians knew they were pursued and would make a desperate push. After leaving some of the company to take in the wounded men, they put off for the Ohio river, the nearest way they could go, and got there the next day about an hour after the Indians had crossed it. The water was yet muddy in the horses' trails, and the rafts that they crossed on were floating down the opposite shore. The company now was unanimous for returning home and giving up the pursuit. Hughs now got some satisfaction for the insult the captain gave him: he said he wanted to find out who the cowards were. He said that if any of them would go with him, he would cross the river and scalp some of the Indians. They all refused to go with him. He said if one man would go with him, he would undertake it; but he could not get one to consent. He then said he would go by himself, and take one of their scalps, or leave his own with them.

The company now started for home, and Hughs went up the river three or four miles, keeping out of sight of it, for he expected the Indians were watching them to see if they would cross. He there made a raft and crossed the river, and camped for the night. The next day he found their trail, and pursued it very cautiously, and about ten miles from the river he found their camp. There was but one Indian in it, the rest were all out hunting. The Indian was left to keep camp: in order to pass away the time, got to playing the fiddle on some bones that they have for the purpose. He was seated in his camp, singing and playing. Hughs crept up and shot him. He then took his scalp, and made the best of his way home.

Mount Gilead Cemetery
also known as
Georgetown Methodist Church Cemetery

This cemetery is located on a hill on the North side of the village of Georgetown, Lewis County, W. Va., about two miles West of Horner, W. Va. According to Sam W. Hardman in his writings of the People of Vandalia Community this cemetery was established about the year 1835. Many of the early settlers of the Georgetown community are buried here, many in unmarked graves or sand-stone markers with illegible inscriptions. Mr. Hardman goes on to state there are graves of early settlers including John Helmick in another grave plot located 200 yards North from where the Georgetown schoolhouse was located. This older cemetery would be located on the opposite side of Georgetown from Mt. Gilead in a wooded area. This survey taken and submitted by Hartzel G. Strader. Jacob WAGGONER Owned the farm where Laurel Lick Cemetery is located. He started burying his infant children there, later neighbors buried there. In November 23, 1906, Francis & Prudy TAYLOR deeded the cemetery to the trustees of The Laurel Lick Church, and they also deeded more ground than was then in use. Francis TAYLOR bought the farm in 1906 of the Jacob WAGGONER heirs. Trustees were T. J. CORATHERS, F.M. BORAN & E.E. TAYLOR. Francis Taylor now owns the farm.

Jackson County Historical Society

One of our members has commented, "Half of Hacker's Creek migrated to Jackson County." While that may be stretching the truth a little, it's not far wrong. Jackson County was a stopping off place for many of our people.

Consequently, we have started an exchange with the Jackson County Historical Society of newsletters. They publish a fine newsletter which contains lots and lots of interesting and exciting information.

Those interested in membership should contact Jackson County Historical Society, P.O. Box 22, Ripley, W. Va. 25271.

1. I am searching for the ancestry of Elizabeth Edmunds Flesher born ca 1807 and married 5 Dec 1825 Lewis County to John Flesher.
